Ask Cash Settlement for Injuries Received by Little Dorothy Bowers.

BERT HAMM IS CLEARED

Case of Hoffman against Hudson is Postponed until January Term. Other Business of Court.

At the morning session of court the case of John and Dorothy Bowers against Annie E. and John Warner, growing out of an automobile accident in 1914 when an electric motor driven by Mrs. Warner ran over the Bowers child was called from trial.

Testimony given by Harry L. Saul, a student, now in his junior year at college, who said he was returning from the post office near the scene of the affair, at the time, was as follows:

He said he was in front of the Photoplay Theatre on the afternoon of September 17, 1914, the day the accident occurred, when he saw an electric going north on the east side of Baltimore street. As it passed him he heard a woman therein, Mrs. Warner, scream and throw up both hands from the steering rod. The car veered a bit to the right and, as it struck the crossing in front of the Miller grocery store, the little Bowers girl saw it and dashed for the curb. The car without anyone guiding it followed her and overtook her at the building line between the Miller property and the adjoining banking building.

Saul picked her up after the wheels of the machine had pushed her against the curb and run over her. He hurried with her to Dr. Hartman's office and left when he found he could no longer be of assistance.

Attorney J. D. Swope of the firm of Swope and Swope who are appearing for the Bowers, told the jury that the little girl, at that time but six years old, was injured about the head, the chest, had her left leg broken and suffered most of all from what was described as a "brush burn" on the other leg. He said her injuries had caused a deformity and that she still suffered and would continue to suffer from their effects though life.

The action by John Bowers, her father, is brought to recompense him for the medical outlay over a period of some months, and that by Dorothy Bowers for the injuries sustained.

Counsel for the Warners failed to shake the testimony of Saul, on their cross examination, and he was the only witness examined during the morning.

After hearing the evidence in the cases against Bert Hamm on Tuesday, District Attorney Topper requested a verdict of not guilty and the jury gave this decision. Hamm was charged with assault and battery and another indictment by 15-year-old Pauline Stump, who for a number of years had been a member of the Hamm household.

The damage suit for $3000 brought by C. Bernard Hoffman, against Dr. E. D. Hudson for injuries received in an automobile and bicycle smash-up on Baltimore street has been continued to January term.

YOUNG MR. GALT TAKES HIS LIFE

Nephew of Emmitsburg Editor Suicides in Washington. Taken to Hospital.

Carroll G. Galt, 27 years old, son of the late Walter A. Galt and nephew of Sterling Galt, of Emmitsburg, committed suicide in Washington Tuesday by taking poison.

Galt appeared in the offices of a company with which he was connected and appeared to be very ill. He stated to inquirers that he had been taking medicine from a bottle which he carried and which was marked "poison." A few minutes later he entered a saloon on the same block and requested the proprietor to call an ambulance. He told the proprietor that he had taken poison and wanted to die.

An ambulance was hurriedly summoned from Emergency Hospital, and when it arrived the physician noted that Galt's condition was so desperate that he could not live long. He was hurried to the hospital and died in 30 minutes.

Galt's wife instituted suit for a divorce from him in Rockville early in October.

INSPECTING STREETS

Looking over Gettysburg's Highways. Interested in Intersection.

George P. Sampson, a member of the highway engineering staff of the Portland Cement Association, is in Gettysburg today for the purpose of making an examination of the streets and roads.

One of the most extensive and scientific studies ever made of any type of road is being conducted by this association of all the concrete roads in the United States. This information will be tabulated and studied so that out of all of the various methods that have been used, those that have been given the best results can be noted.

The significance of this undertaking can be partially appreciated when it is realized that it includes a critical examination of upwards of seventy million square yards of concrete pavement, or nearly 7,000 miles of 18-foot road.

The only piece of concrete road in Gettysburg is at the intersection of Carlisle street and Lincoln avenue, which Mr. Sampson inspected carefully.

YOUNG BOY HURT

Hanging on Barn Door Results Disastrously for him.

Wilbur Buohl, the four-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Buohl, of Brush Run school house, while playing at his father's barn had his right leg fractured at the hip when the door on which he was hanging became unfastened and fell on him. A New Oxford physician dressed the injuries.

MAINE TOURISTS COME NEXT WEEK

Prominent Residents of New England State to Spend Two Days here.

FROM NATIONAL GRANGE

Limousines Bring in Late Autumn Tourists in Unusual Numbers. Last Big Party Coming.

Gettysburg's tourist season for 1916 will officially close next week when the last party of any appreciable size will come here for a several days' tour of the battlefield.

Coming from the meeting of the National Grange in Washington, a party of forty five Maine citizens will arrive in Gettysburg on Monday afternoon, the 20th, and will stay until Wednesday morning, the 22nd. They will come by private car over the Western Maryland, and will be taken out over the Reading as far as Jersey City where the car will be turned over to one of the connecting lines.

Included in the Maine tourists will be a number of residents of that state who are prominently identified with its agricultual development. Members of state and local granges largely make up the personnel of the party, and several officials are also numbered in the list. While here they will stay at one of the hotels. No special entertainment, other than the customary trips over the field, has been provided for their stay here.

While this will be the last large party for the year it is probable that touring to Gettysburg will continue until well on toward Christmas provided weather conditions are favorable. This week many automobile visitors have been here and the hotels and garages have been as busy as in early spring. Massive limousines, finely appointed, and destined to allow comfortable travel even in low temperatures, have been noticed in unusual numbers. Many of these came from far distant states.

At one of the hotels on Sunday ninety dinners were served and the others were almost as busy. The fact that the roads are now in good shape for motor travel is doubtless one of the things that is keeping the volume up to such large proportions even though the first month of autumn is practically spent.

DIRECTORS ON VISIT

Adams County Directors Guests at York Almshouse.

Guests entertained Tuesday afternoon at the York county almshouse were the members of the Adams county poor board, consisting of Messrs. Eisenhart, Rife, and Trostle, Clerk Stambaugh and Steward Sheely. The visitors were guests of the York directors of the poor and Steward Kessler at dinner, after which they were escorted through the almshouse. The Adams county delegation expressed themselves as being very much impressed with the sanitary conditions and management of York county's home for the poor.

The Adams county poor directors went there from an inspection tour through the lower end of the county, where they visited homes in which poor children are being cared for. The York county board will pay a return visit to the Adams county almshouse in the near future.

HORSE KILLED ON RAILROAD TRACK

Farmer Has Narrow Escape when Western Maryland Flyer Hits Animal.

James Marker, a farmer, residing between Smithsburg and Edgemont, had a remarkable escape from death on Tuesday, when the Pittsburgh flyer struck the team which he was driving near the station at Smithsburg, killing the horse and almost completely demolishing the wagon.

Mr. Marker was on his way to Ingram's Mill, near Cavetown, when the accident occurred. He is slightly deaf and probably forgot to look before crossing the railroad track between the station and the warehouse. The flyer was traveling at a rate estimated between 25 and 35 miles per hour, when it struck the team. The horse had just stepped upon the track when the train bore down upon the team. When the flyer hit the horse, the animal's body was hurled some distance. Mr. Marker was thrown over the dashboard and landed between the train and the damaged wagon, only several feet from the wheels of the train.

Mr. Marker suffered bruises and lacerations about the body and was badly shocked. He was hurried to the office of a physician, where medical attention was rendered. He was later removed to his home. His condition is not considered serious.

MR. DICE IMPROVING

Expected that his Progress will now be Rapid.

It will interest the many Gettysburg friends of Agnew T. Dice, president of the Philadelphia & Reading railway company, to learn that Mr. Dice is at last on the road to recovery from a very serious attack of typhoid fever.

Mr. Dice was taken ill in Washington the latter part of August during the conferences with President Wilson, on the threatened railway strike. He has been confined to his bed at his cottage, South Aberdeen Place, Atlantic City, since Sunday, August 27. There were several slight relapses after the fever had passed its crisis and it is only during the last few days that Mr. Dice has been able to sit up in bed for a short time each day. His physicians say that their patient is showing unexpected strength and that his progress from this time will be rapid.

BEGIN REPAIRING BUFORD STREET

Will Put Town Thoroughfare into Condition for the Winter Travel.

DETERMINE PAY LATER

Piece of Borough Road that Caused Much Comment is now Undergoing Necessary Repairs.

Under the direction of the highway committee of the borough council work has been started at the resurfacing of the much discussed portion of Buford street leading from the borough onto the Chambersburg pike. The small number of hands available will make progress on the work rather slow but it is expected to have it completed before cold weather interferes.

Material from the side is being taken in to build up the center and a liberal supply of stones will be put on top. No binder can be used now because it is too late in the year to apply this successfully, the low temperatures not allowing it to adhere to the stone in the manner intended.

Just who shall pay for this work ultimately is a matter which will be decided in the Dauphin County Courts. The work here, it is understood, will entail an expenditure of not more than $300 and the borough is having it done with the understanding that, if it is found the State is liable for the road's up-keep, the town shall be reimbursed for the full amount expended. If, on the other hand, it is found that the State is liable then the borough's own funds will stand the brunt.

The portion of road now being repaired is without doubt the worst piece of highway in Gettysburg. Leading onto the finely kept Lincoln Highway, it stood in sharp contrast and was the object of condemnation on the part of scores of motor tourists. It was here that young Page, of Pittsburgh, was killed last summer after his speeding car left the road. He had come in the Lincoln Highway at a lively clip, knowing nothing of the rough street ahead.

Gettysburg motorists have known all the time of the condition and, instead of using Buford street, they used the avenue past the Seminary and Springs avenue to get from the center of town to the Chambersburg Pike.

The proceeding at Harrisburg is an amicable one but will have far reaching effect on the question of maintaining Buford street, Chambersburg street, and Baltimore street, all of which, it is contended, locally, became subject to State control when it acquired the old Chambersburg and Petersburg turnpike, which included the road from Chambersburg to Littlestown through Gettysburg.

NOT SATISFIED

Wets Plan to Contest Maryland Drys Victory

Hagerstown "wets" have consulted lawyers with a view of testing in the courts the constitutionality of the act under which Washington county voted "dry" by a substantial majority last Tuesday. The "wets" contend that the election was illegal because three units in the county, that had previously been made "dry" by legislative enactment, participated in the election. "Dry" lawyers say the act is legal and that the election will stand.

AFTER ODD FIGURES

Numbers for Licenses up to 1,000 Nearly All Reserved.

Applications for automobile tags continue to reach the State Highway Department by the hundreds, the owners of cars taking time by the forelock in order that there may be no delay in their receiving licenses and tags for 1917. November 22 is the last day for receiving applications to reserve certain numbers. After that everybody will have to take numbers in regular turn. Almost all of the numbers under 1,000 have been reserved.

EIGHT MILLION TREES READY

And Many of them will Come from Mont Alto Forest Reservation.

Almost eight million trees will be available for next spring's reforesting operations from the stock now in the State Forest nurseries. This is an increase in production over last year of about thirty per cent, and is the largest number of seedlings ever grown in the nurseries.

Nearly all of the trees will be taken from the four large nurseries at Mont Alto, Franklin county, Asaph, Tioga county, Greenwood, Huntingdon county, and Clearfield. The Mont Alto nursery will have available 2,850,000 trees; Asaph, 1,575,000; Clearfield, 2,400,000; and Greenwood, 971,000. In addition, twenty smaller nurseries are in operation on the State Forests, which will produce from 5,000 to 100,000 trees each.

Over half of the eight million seedlings are white pines. The following species make up the remainder; Norway spruce, 1,013,000; Scotch pine, 1,283,000; pitch pine, 762,000; European larch, 436,000; Japanese larch, 34,000; sugar maple, 12,000; and Douglas fir, 4,000. Fifteen bushels of black cherry seeds were planted last spring in the hope of raising trees which would produce both timber and bird food, but because of unfavorable weather conditions the crop was an almost complete failure.

Last year private individuals planted 1,500,000 trees furnished by the Department. This year enough trees to meet all demands will be available for free public distribution. The only restrictions are that they must be used for reforesting, and not for shade or ornamental planting. Trees will not be shipped in less than five hundred lots.

BETTER PRICES FOR EMPLOYEES

Labor Troubles in Lower End of the County have been Avoided.

ALL FACTORIES INCREASE

One Town Reports the Highest Figures for Labor in its History. General Advance.

The possibility of a strike in the many cigar manufacturing establishments in the lower part of Adams County has apparently been avoided through a general increase in prices made by all the companies and individuals employing labor. It will be recalled that a number of meetings were held at Reading recently in which the Adams County operators were keenly interested, at which the question of more compensation was the chief matter at issue.

Following the earlier of these meetings, Eisenlohr Brothers announced a better scale at their factories, including the large one at Littlestown. This did not meet all the desires of the employees but it served for a time at least to handle the condition.

Now, information comes from McSherrystown that all the cigar manufacturers there have raised the price per thousand for making cigars. The raise is one dollar per thousand and the minimum scale in union shops is $8 instead of $7. This, it is declared, is the highest price ever paid in McSherrystown for that sort of work.

The cigar industry has been exceptionaly brisk for some time past and all in McSherrystown, Edgegrove, Irishtown, and other communities, who are able to go into the cigarmaking business and want work have been able to find it.

The expected prosperity has followed this boom.

ARREST MAYOR IN COATESVILLE

Accused of Embezzlement and Keeping Books to Defraud.

SAYS FINES WERE WITHHELD

Executive is Also Accused of Keeping Forfeited Bail--Climax of Hot Political Fight.

Coatesville, Pa., Nov. 15.—Serving as a climax to numerous municipal sensations, two warrants were sworn out before Squire R. Jones Patrick, of West Chester, for the arrest of Mayor Walter L. W. Jones, of this city, charging him with "embezzlement," and "keeping books with intent to defraud."

The warrants were sworn out by Constable Charles Frymoyer, at the instance of a number of citizens, known as "the committee of thirty-two," who have engaged as counsel William Tregay, of Coatesville, and Colonel A. M. Holding, of West Chester.

The mayor was in consultation with City Solicitor Walter E. Greenwood in the latter's private office when the constable entered and served the warrants. Mayor Jones told the constable he would enter bail and waive a hearing. Squire Patrick set Friday as the day for the hearing. It was reported that Jerre Reardon, proprietor of Hotel Coatesville, would become Jones' bondsman.

The charges against the mayor as set forth in the two affidavits made by the constable are that he has collected fines from men who have been arrested and that he has made no returns of these fines to the city treasury; and, further, that he has released from the lock-up men who have been arrested upon their depositing with him a certain amount of money as bail, and when they failed to return for a hearing, thereby forfeiting the bail, the mayor has failed to deposit this money in the treasury.

The charges are formal and no specific instances of wrongdoing are cited. The first affidavit reads that the mayor collected and received large sums of money which he converted to his own use instead of transferring them to the treasury, while the second declares he did, with intent to defraud, omit to make, or cause, or direct to be made, a full and true entry of all moneys received in the books and accounts of the city of Coatesville.

Jones was elected Mayor last November, winning over his opponent, Rev. Thompson W. McKinney, pastor of the Methodist church, by a narrow margin of nine votes. The "committee of thirty-two," headed by Rev. Mr. McKinney, William H. Hamilton, general superintendent of the Lukens Iron & Steel company; Councilmen Harry M. Zook and I. B. Kirk and others, all of whom are aligned with the anti-liquor forces, contested Jones' election.

The Chester county court appointed George S. Dewees, of West Chester, as master of the contest.

The hearings, which were held over a period of eleven months, came to a close only a few weeks ago. Both the Jones and McKinney forces attacked the polling places of the city, all of which, they charged were not properly equipped according to the strictest interpretation of the law. Illegal votes were also found, voters having cast their ballots without having paid their taxes themselves.

Yesterday's sensation came like a bombshell—the very day before Master Dewees was scheduled to file his opinion in the contest. But Mr. Dewees announced he would not file his opinion until Thursday morning. In the opinion of most members of the county bar, the master's opinion will be to the effect that the election of November, 1915, was illegal. In this event, a special election will be ordered.

Rev. Mr. McKinney has announced that he will again be a candidate in case Jones comes out for the office, and the latter declares he will run.

CABRERA HOLDS UP ARMY AGREEMENT

Vetoes Ratification of Plan to Withdraw U. S. Troops.

Atlantic City, N. J., Nov. 15.—Vigorous opposition by Luis Cabrera, chairman of the Mexican representation, prevented a formal agreement by the Mexican-American commission on the principle and essential points of the plan for a withdrawal of the American troops from Mexico and of the other questions that have arisen between the two countries.

It became known that on Monday, while Mr. Cabrera was in Philadelphia, conferring with Rafael Nieto, sub-secretary of the department of Finance, Carranza's other two representatives and the American commissioners entered into an agreement which the Mexicans believed would be ratified by Mr. Cabrera.

When Cabrera appeared, however, he objected to certain terms in the proposed agreement and for an hour addressed the commissioners, protesting against the plan as agreed to by the other two Mexicans.

This unexpected opposition by Mr. Cabrera is believed to have brought the commissioners once more to a position where a solution of the international problems cannot be reached for several days at least.

BRITISH TAKE 4000 PRISONERS

Struggle Now in Progress For Town of Beaucourt.

ANCRE DRIVE UNCHECKED

Strongly Fortified Beaumont-Hamel Was Captured by Storm After St. Pierre Divion Fell.

London, Nov. 15.—The number of German prisoners taken by the British in the new drive in the Ancre sector of the Somme front is now more than 4000, according to an official statement issued by the war office.

The British broke through on the whole five-mile front north and south of the river.

It is the first time that the English have delivered a grand assault without the co-operation of the French since the big drive against Bapaume and Peronne opened on July 1.

The capture of Beaumont-Hamel, which was reported unofficially, is announced in the statement. The capture of St. Pierre Divion was recorded on Monday.

The war office says:

"We stormed the heavily fortified village of Beaumont-Hamel and advanced to the outskirts of Beaucourt-Sur-Ancre. The number of prisoners is increasing considerably. Over 4000 have passed through collecting stations since Monday morning. The fighting continues."

All the positions that the British infantry stormed had been in German hands for two years, and every ingenuity of the German engineers had been brought to bear to make them impregnable. There were line after line of trenches, barbed wire entanglements many yards deep and innumerable dugouts.

The main aims of the attack were to straighten the line north of Thiepval and the Ancre, where there was a German salient at Beaumont-Hamel to reach toward the strongly defended town of Miraumont, three miles behind Beaumont-Hamel, and to take the first step toward Bapaume directly from the west. The same advance puts the British lines nearer than ever before to the important railroad junction of Achiet-le-Grand, three miles northwest of Bapaume.

In this attack the possession of the high ground at Thiepval, which the British captured last month, was of great benefit. A great part of the Ancre valley is dominated from the Thiepval spur, and the British artillery was able to fire upon clearly discernible targets, which was impossible in the first period of the Somme attack.

South of the Ancre lies St. Pierre Divion. The village once taken, the line was swung further north in a semi-circle, until it reached the Ancre near Beaucourt, about a mile beyond St. Pierre Divion.

North of the Ancre the fight for Beaumont-Hamel was the fiercest of the day. This village was fortified as strongly as Thiepval itself. It was believed to be impregnable. German prisoners said. There were chains of connected machine gun redoubts, elaborate telephone and electric lighting systems all underground, and most important of all, great caverns as large as any found on the Somme front, in which whole battalions of infantry could be sheltered.

LEPER WOULD MOVE

Asks Dr. Dixon's Permission to Go to New York State.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Nov. 15.—Joseph Norman, the leper, has applied to Dr. Samuel Dixon, of the state department of health, for permission to leave this city and go to friends in New York state, who have promised him work as a farmer.

Some time ago Dr. Dixon gave permission to city authorities to lift the quarantine on the Norman home. Since that time Norman has been about the streets, coming and going as he pleased.

Norman has discovered that it will be impossible to get work in this section and because of that he has asked Dr. Dixon for the right to go to his friends. His children are not allowed to go to school and people run from him and members of his family.

FALKENHAYN GAINS IN TRANSYLVANIA

Rumanians Are Forced Further Back From Border.

London, Nov. 15.—General von Falkenhayn continues to make progress in his invasion of Rumania from the Transylvania front.

Both Petrograd and Bucharest admit Teutonic successes. The Russo-Rumanian troops have been compelled to give ground at one point in the region northeast of Campulung and to withdraw southward in the Jiul valley from Bumbeshti, where the Austro-German forces have pushed some twelve miles south of the border.

Russian forces have retired from the Gyergyo mountains, in northern Transylvania, to the Rumanian frontier, as a result of German and Austro-Hungarian attacks, says the German official statement. To the south of Tulghes pass, the statement adds, Bavarian and Austro-Hungarian battalions made progress.

Redoubled efforts are being made by the Austrians and Germans against Rumania, Reuter's Bucharest correspondent reports. Powerful Teutonic reinforcements have been sent to the region of Orsova on the Danube in Hungary, near the Rumanian border. In this region the struggle is continuing stubbornly, every effort being made by the Austrians and Germans to recapture the town and re-establish communications by way of the Danube.

SOLD WIFE: SHOT BY BUYER

Husband Thought Purchaser Was Evading $500 Payment.

St. Louis, Nov. 15.—A strange pact by which William F. Hussman sold his pretty wife to a man ten years his junior, ended fatally when Ralph H. Shotwell, the purchaser, shot Hussman through the heart.

The deal was arranged a week ago. Shotwell promised to pay $500 for Mrs. Hussman within a week, and she, acquiescing in the sale, promised to pay part of the money herself.

Convinced that Shotwell was trying to evade payment, Hussman went to the farmer's home and after an argument drew a revolver. His weapon failed to discharge and Shotwell killed him. An examination showed that the mainspring had been removed from the elder man's revolver.

CRITICIZED: KILLS HIMSELF

Youth, Subject of Jibes, Shoots Himself Before Brother.

Pottsville, Pa., Nov. 15.—While his brother and two companions were rushing frantically toward him, Elmer Miller, nineteen years old, of Lorberry Junction, near Tremont, raised a revolver to his head and blew his brains out.

The act was committed because Miller was critized for buying a pair of shoes for his sweetheart.

Learning that Elmer was contemplating suicide, his brother and companions ran towards the hill where he stood, the brother shouting, "My God, Elmer, don't do that!" Elmer waited with a smile on his face until the trio were within thirty yards of him and then shot.

SHOOTS AT FLAG DESPOILER

Lancaster Man Aroused at Midnight by Vandal Act.

Lancaster, Pa., Nov. 15.— At midnight Charles A. Shindle, ice dealer, was aroused by a noise in front of his house and, looking from his bedroom window, discovered that a big American flag he had displayed had been pulled down by an unidentified man who was tearing it to pieces and trampling it under foot.

Shindle fired a rifle at the direction of the flag, but missed and the man fled.

HER GIFT OF MIMICRY.

Cissie Loftus Could Imitate Irving and Bernhardt Equally Well.

Walter Prichard Eaton in the American Magazine says in an article about famous mimics:

"In the days when Cissie Loftus was delighting vaudeville audiences with her imitations she used to give an imitation of Lillian Russell. Miss Russell countered by giving an imitation of Miss Loftus' imitation of her. But to an artist like Miss Loftus that presented no difficulties. She merely came back with an imitation of Miss Russell's imitation of her imitation of Miss Russell! The fair Lillian thereupon retired from an unequal contest.

"Cissie Loftus could imitate anybody. The present writer once heard her in the course of a casual conversation imitate most thrillingly Sir Henry Irving in a blank verse death scene. Then an imaginary curtain descended, and you heard Sir Henry, in a totally different voice (no less unmistakably his), inquiring in very Saxon prose, where the deuce were the red lights?

"Standing on the stage of a theater, without change of costume, with the flicker of a smile on her rather wistful face, she would range from Sarah Bernhardt to Ethel Barrymore, so that you almost gasped at the uncanny cleverness of it, and if you shut your eyes you could hardly believe that the actual persons were not present.

"Hers of course was an extraordinary gift of mimicry, and it brought her in $1,000 a week, much more probably than she could command as an actress."

FORM COMMERCE BODY

With a dinner held in Mentzer Hall attended by 200 representative business and professional men the movement for a new Chamber of Commerce in Carlisle was formally launched. The plan was carried to further enlargement when committees comprising fifty men, under the leadership of the new directors began a campaign for memberships in the new body, meeting with success which insures a large and active organization.

Dr. Guy Carleton Lee, president of the Chamber of Commerce, presided at the dinner and delivered an address in which he set the lines of activity along which the organization will work. David E. Tracy, head of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce, brought greetings from that body and explained the manner in which that Capitol City organization had been successful. He was ably seconded by Flavel Wright, also of Harrisburg.

The main address was delivered by Colonel Edward J. Catell, of Philadelphia, who urged the need of co-operation, the sacrifice of self for the betterment of all. Colonel Catell gave a glowing view of the future of America in the next few years and showed how the country would be called upon to furnish supplies for the development of new tracts of territory by the warring nations.

The officers of the newly formed body are: president, Dr. Guy Carleton Lee; directors, C. F. Humrich, Dr. H. H. Mentzer, J. J. Boyd, R. E. Shearer Sr., H. H. Mentzer, Dr. C. S. Basehore, William M. Kronenberg, Merkel Landis and Walter Stuart.

The times of the equity court, argument courts, monthly return days and orphans courts also have been changed. For many years quarter sessions (criminal court) have been held in February, May, September and November.

YORK COUNTY

TRAIN KILLS FLAGMAN

Harry S. Lehr, a flagman on the York yard crew of the Pennsylvania railroad, was found dead between the north and southbound tracks about 100 yards east of the General Roofing company's plant, early this morning. The body was discovered by Conductor Dandy, of Baltimore whose freight train pulled onto the siding to let a southbound passenger train through.

Mr. Lehr's crew was shifting cars in the yard of the General Roofing company's plant and he was flagging east of the plant. No definite information could be obtained by the railroad officials, but it is believed that he was hit by a southbound passenger train. His body was about 30 feet east of where the first evidences of his being struck could be seen. His lantern was about 65 yards from the body. His rubbers were ripped off but his clothing was not badly torn.

The supposition is that Lehr was sitting on the southbound track when hit, as the coroner found every bone on the right side of the body crushed. He was probably resting and fell asleep.

VICTIM OF SCOURGE

Robert Ebaugh, the 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ebaugh, who resides near Stewartstown, died Tuesday of infantile paralysis. The boy became suddenly sick after drinking sweet cider. This is the second case of the plague to appear in southern York county within the past several months.

FRANKLIN COUNTY

So far none of the celebrators of Democratic Night, against whom information has been made in Chambersburg has asked for a hearing. They have pleaded guilty and have paid $7.50, fine and costs. Information was made against several more men: Clarence Jacobs, Orville Taylor, Harry Sease, William Fennel, and Edmund Franklin.

When the police went to serve the warrants on Jacobs and Taylor it was learned that they had left town. Proprietor Shearer of the Star Theatre will also sue Franklin for the destruction of several advertising frames, if Franklin does not pay for them. Shearer alleges that Franklin threw these frames into one of the numerous fires.

GUILD MADE 724 ARTICLES

At the annual meeting of the Chambersburg Branch of the Needle Work Guild 724 articles were received. In accordance with the rules of the Guild the directors ask each member of their tens for two new warm or substantial articles that will be useful in the Hospital, the Children's Home, or the Home for the Aged, or in the Associated Charity work. This year the Guild received 100 pillowcases, 135 towels, 20 sheets, 8 blankets, 200 pairs of stockings, some caps, shirts, trousers and one pair of shoes and much underwear. These have been distributed to local charities.

Later in the year the Guild will send war relief supplies to the needlework representative in Lyons, France, to be distributed by her in the hospitals and to the refugees.

ENLIST AS REGULARS

In a letter from Sergeant J. R. Kriechbaum, with Company C and the troops along the border, he writes that four members of Company C have applied for enlistment in the regular army, with the 20th Infantry at Fort Bliss. The four are Corporal Fleming, Mercersburg, (who served one enlistment in the Third U. S. Infantry at Fort Slocum, N. Y.); Roy Upperman, Edenville; John Ferguson, Chambersburg; Howard Kriner, Fayetteville. The young men have been accepted by the U. S. army medical department but have not, as yet, received their discharge from the 8th Pennsylvania regiment.

BAR MARYLAND MEMBERS

It is told that some of the Waynesboro clubs which have bars attached have adopted regulations limiting the membership to residents of Pennsylvania.

This action has been taken, it is said, in view of prospective applications from people living in Maryland, due to the recent elections in Washington and Frederick counties, by which these counties will become dry May 1, 1918.

It was felt by these clubs, it is said, that there was the likelihood of many applications for membership by residents of these dry counties and the action limiting the membership was taken to prevent the use of the clubs for the purpose solely of getting the privileges of the bar.

BOTH DEMOCRATS AND REPUBLICANS CLAIMING A MAJORITY IN HOUSE

Returns Indicate G. O. P. Will Have 217, Lacking One of Majority—Six Members Are Independent.

Several Districts Are Still In Doubt—Speculation as to Who Will Be Elected Next Speaker.

DISPUTES between the two parties over the control of the house of representatives undoubtedly will continue until all the districts are accounted for by official canvass. Both Democrats and Republicans are claiming the majority of the body.

There is enough uncertainty in the situation, however, to justify the statement that neither is confident of the figures they offer to confirm these claims.

On the face of the returns the division of the house is so close that neither side is actually assured of enough votes to control. The surface advantage seems to be a shade in favor of the Republicans. This advantage may be wiped out by belated returns from districts over which the rival party managers are contending.

The most reasonable figures show that, leaving aside the districts in controversy and accounting for those which appear to be uncontested, the Democrats have elected 212 members, the Republicans 217, the Progressives 3, Independents 1, Socialists 1 and Prohibitionists 1.

The New Mexico district seems safely Democratic.

How Vote Stands Now.

The political division of the house by states on these figures, therefore, will be as follows:

G. O. P. Claims Majority.

The Republicans are claiming 217 and conceding 210 to the opposition. This claim is based on the assumption that some of the doubtful districts and members classified as independent will unite with them in the house.

A Republican gain was made in the Sixth New Jersey district, where John H. Ramsay was elected over Robert Heath. In the Third New Jersey district Thomas J. Scully, Democrat, claims to have been elected over Robert Carson, Republican.

Three districts in Pennsylvania, two won by Republicans and one by a Democrat on the face of the returns, may be changed by the soldier vote.

The Democrats have a chance to win in the Eleventh Iowa district, where a recount is possible, and the plurality of the winning Progressive in the Third Louisiana district is so small that a recount there is probable.

The Independents have not committed themselves. Under the independent classification are listed Schall (Progressive) of Minnesota, Martin of Louisiana, Fuller (Protection Democrat) of Massachusetts, Randall (Prohibitionist) of California, London (Socialist) of New York and Nolan (Progressive) of California.

These men may have a lot to say regarding the organization of the next house and, if they agree to act together, possibly can dictate the speakership. Even with a majority in the house the Republicans cannot hope to control legislation because the senate is Democratic by a majority of twelve.

The most important measures that will engage the attention of the present Democratic congress when it convenes next month includes the immigration bill, once vetoed by the president; a new corrupt practices law, conservation and water power legislation, a vocational education bill, a project to permit the organization of collective selling agencies in foreign countries and additional defense measures.

It is apparent from the returns to date that the Republicans will have enough members to organize the house in the next house of representatives. Should the Republicans be obliged to depend on some of the representatives of the minor parties to carry out the work of organization they may not be able to put James R. Mann of Illinois in the speaker's chair as the successor of Champ Clark of Missouri. Minor party representatives may insist that some other Republican be chosen and threaten to throw their votes to the Democrats and possibly re-elect Speaker Clark if their wishes are not granted. Should the Republicans have a fair majority over any possible combination in opposition Mr. Mann probably will be their candidate for speaker.

In telegraphing to Washington that he had been re-elected Congressman John M. Evans, Democrat, conceded the election of Miss Jeannette Rankin, Republican, as a congressman, or, it may be better to say, a congresswoman at large from Montana over Harry B. Mitchell, Democrat. Both Mr. Evans and Miss Rankin live in Missoula. The acknowledgment by a Democratic congressman that Miss Rankin had been elected seems to remove all doubt on that score.

No Recount Likely.

In view of the fact that President Wilson obtained such a substantial plurality of the popular vote Republican managers found little consolation in the vague hope that the official count in California might place a majority of the votes in the electoral college in the Hughes column. Officially National Chairman William R. Willcox refused to concede the re-election of the president, but there is a pretty definite feeling abroad that none of the Republicans expected any change favorable to their cause.

Mr. Willcox, after a conference with Charles E. Hughes at the Hotel Astor, said he wanted it understood that the Republicans were not "crying over the result." He looked rested, and Mr. Hughes also apparently was in good spirits. It has been said that the fact that Mr. Wilson obtained the popular vote as well as the electoral vote had served to remove much of the sting from the eleventh hour defeat. At first it was supposed that Mr. Hughes was the popular choice.

The chances are that the Republican managers and Mr. Hughes will concede the re-election of President Wilson as soon as the official recount has been made. If it shows that President Wilson has maintained his lead in California and beyond doubt captured the thirteen electoral votes in that state there will be small room for doubt.

As to the chances of contests in California Mr. Willcox will make no definite statement at this time.

Messages have been sent to him alleging that there had been fraud, but that there was no substantial proof of it. When the official count was received, he said, the situation would be thoroughly canvassed. His words, however, gave the impression that only absolute evidence of corruption would lead to contests, and that the present indications were that the official count would be accepted as final. This attitude was reflected by others who had little heart for contests of a more or less technical nature when President Wilson was apparently the choice of the voters of the country by perhaps 400,000 votes.

HOW SOME MEN PAID THEIR ELECTION BETS.

Followed by a goodly number of the 7,829 voters in Lynn, Mass., who cast their ballots for President Wilson, Ernest Dullea drove a hearse through the principal streets of the city in payment of an election bet.

Behind the Wilson voters were about 7,000 men who believed that Hughes would be elected. The eight horses which pulled the hearse were in the regulation funeral regalia.

The funeral march was the "Undertaker's Song," made famous at Yale, which the marchers whistled and a band played.

John Welday of Altoona, Pa., a thoroughgoing Republican, and A. S. Springer, a cotton grower of Wilson, N. C., bet on the election. The loser was to permit the winner to lead him by a dog leash through the foyer and lobby of the Hotel Bossert, Brooklyn. The loser was to travel on all fours.

The bet was paid a few days after election. Welday underwent the ordeal with courage. The "dog" weighs 210 and his "master" 125. They went to the door of the grill, where dancing was going on. There Welday got up on his hind legs and barked.

COMB SAGE TEA IN FADED OR GRAY HAIR

If Mixed with Sulphur it Darkens so Naturally Nobody can Tell.

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, for about 50 cents. This simple mixture can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says everybody uses Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied-it's so easy to use, too. You simply dampen a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it is restored to its natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful. This preparation is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

TO PROBE BREACH OF ELECTION LAW

Senate Will Investigate Illegal Use of Money.

SPECIAL AGENTS AT WORK

Democrats Declare Republicans Collected Over $3,000,000 in Wall Street and Used it in Middle West.

Washington, Nov. 15.—A senatorial investigation of alleged misuse of money in the presidential campaign was announced definitely by administration officials.

Preliminary plans have been made, and a resolution providing for the inquiry is ready to be introduced soon after congress convenes on Monday, December 4.

From administration officials, it was learned that Vance McCormick, Democratic national chairman, has received what he says is positive evidence that the Republican national committee collected more than $3,000,000 in Wall street just before election and spent a large part of it in Indiana and West Virginia. The total expenditures of the Republicans is said by Democrats to be more than $7,000,000.

The department of justice issued this statement:

"It is stated that the fact that the election is over will not in any way delay or abate the department's investigations in the different states of alleged violations of the federal statutes relative to elections. Where the facts developed justify, prosecutions promptly will be instituted. It was pointed out that these investigations are in no way political matters, but questions of violations of law and will be so treated.

"No details of the progress of the investigations can be given, as this would be contrary to the general practice of the department, and would manifestly militate against the proper enforcement of the law.

"No further announcement with regard to the matter is contemplated. Such action as may finally be taken will become publicly known when the prosecutions are instituted in the districts where the law has been violated."

While the statement does not name any states, it is known that a large force of special agents has been working in Michigan, Minnesota, Ohio, New York, Illinois, Indiana and other states.

California Count Slow.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Woodrow Wilson's plurality in California was increased by 100 votes by returns from county clerks. The count progressed slowly and aws far from complete in the larger counties. A few small counties reported.

Minnesota Lead 1088.

St. Paul, Nov. 15.—The Hughes plurality, on a re-checking of votes throughout Minnesota, mounted to 1088.

The totals, including Hennepin county's latest figures, showing a decided gain for Hughes, were: Wilson, 178,559; Hughes, 179,647.

IDAHO MAY SPLIT VOTE

Democratic Elector Possibly Disqualified From Serving.

Boise, Idaho, Nov. 15.—Because James E. Pincock, one of the four Democratic electors chosen in Idaho, also was a candidate for the state legislature from Custer county and was elected, Idaho's electoral vote, instead of being four for President Wilson, is likely to stand three for Wilson and one for Hughes, it was reported.

The law disqualifies any presidential elector who is also the holder of a state position, and Pincock's elegibility probably will be tested, political leaders say. If he is disqualified, the highest Republican elector may cast his vote.

BRAVERY OF A TOREADOR.

Remarkable Display of Nerve by a Spanish Bull Fighter.

The famous Spanish toreador Reverte figured in one of the most thrilling incidents ever witnessed in the bull fighting arena.

It was at Bayonne. After disposing of two bulls Reverte had twice plunged his sword into a third of great strength and ferocity, and as the beast continued careering wildly the spectators began to hiss Reverte for bungling.

Wounded to the very quick of his pride, the Spaniard shouted, "The bull is slain!" and, throwing aside his sword, sank on one knee with folded arms in the middle of the ring.

He was right, but he had not allowed for the margin of accident. The wounded beast charged full upon him, but the matador, splendid to the last, knelt motionless as a statue, while the spectators held their breath in horrified suspense.

Reaching his victim, the bull literally bounded at him, and as he sprang he sank in death, with his last effort giving one fearful lunge of the head that drove a horn into the thigh of the kneeling man and laid bare the bone from the knee to the joint.

Still Reverte never flinched, but remained kneeling, exultant in victory, but calmly contemptuous of applause, till he was carried away to heal him of his grievous wound.

"DRYS" LOSE GROUND IN PA. LEGISLATURE

Say Local Option Forces Lost Fifteen Votes.

Philadelphia, Nov. 15.—The political complexion of the legislature which will assemble next January has been decided by the unofficial count of the votes in legislative districts throughout the state.

The representation of the several parties will be:

Senate: Republicans, 39; Democrats, 10; Washington party, 1.

House: Republicans, 169; Democrats, 37; Socialist, 1.

The lone Socialist is James H. Maurer, Reading, former president of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, who was re-elected.

According to Republican organization leaders, the local option vote in the next house will be smaller than two years ago by fifteen votes. The "drys" in 1915 got seventy-eight votes to the "wets" 128.

It is conceded, however, the leaders of the liquor forces in the legislature are disposed to consider the advisability of meeting the agitation which comes up at every session by agreeing to some compromise measure. It is also conceded that the Vares could increase the local option vote by deciding to support the "drys."

Governor Brumbaugh refrained from carrying out his announced intention of stumping the districts of members of the house who declined to vote for his local option measure two years ago, and the election returns show that practically all of the members of the house who changed from "wet" to "dry" at his solicitation were defeated.

1 DEAD, 9 HURT IN WRECK

President of National Aducational Association Among the Injured.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 15.—David B. Johnson, president of Winthrop College, Rock Hill, S. ., and also president of the National Educational Association, and eight other passengers were injured, the engineer killed and the fireman badly scalded when a Southern Railway passenger train from Augusta to New York was wrecked in a collision in the yards.

Dr. Johnson suffered contusiozs and a sprained neck. The other passengers were only slightly injured.

15 Hurt When Trolleys Crash.

Evansville, Ind., Nov. 15.—Fifteen persons were hurt, four probably fatally, when two Evansville and Eastern Interurban cars met in head-on collision near Yankeetown, Warrick county. The injured were brought to this city in a relief car which carried doctors and nurses to the scene from this city.

Washing Chamois.

Use luke-warm water to which a pinch of soda has been added. Rub the chamois well with soap and wash as you would any other garment. The secret of having it soft after washing is to rub well between the hands, and pull into shape before it is thoroughly dry.

Concerning the Venus of Milo.

It is said that the base of the Venus of Milo, with the name of the sculptor upon it, was destroyed for the purpose of deceiving a king of France into the belief that it was more ancient than it really is.

Stumping the Agent.

"I tell you," said the real estate agent, "there isn't a finer residence development on earth than this. Just look at the wonderful scenery." "The scenery is all right," replied the man who was looking for a home. "The only trouble is there's too much of it between here and the city."

As an Encore.

My little nephew, Howard, two and a half years old, had just been taught the evening prayer, "Now I lay me down to sleep, etc." On coming to the end of it he said, "Now, mamma, let's have another little piece, 'Little Fishes in the Brook.'"—Cleveland Leader.

The KITCHEN CUPBOARD

SNAPPY FIVE DOLLAR DINNERS.

TWO dozen round clams at a cent apiece for clam bisque will cost 24 cents; two dozen hard crabs for a ramekin entree, $1; a three pound piece of pompano for stuffing and baking at 35 cents a pound, $1.05. A pint of shrimps will be needed for the fish sauce and, ready boiled, will come to 35 cents. For the making of the lobster salad select two two-pound lobsters, costing $1.20. So much for the fish.

Two slender green cucumbers will be needed to serve with the crab ramekin course; cost, 10 cents. A twenty-five cent bunch of celery will be the best economy, for it will be needed to serve the hearts with the relishes and some chopped with the salad. A five cent bunch of parsley will answer for all garnishing. Two bunches of radishes at 10 cents and a large head of salad at 10 cents add 20 cents more. Two bunches of prime asparagus for a vegetable will cost 75 cents, and a quart of new Bermuda potatoes may be had for 15 cents.

For the old fashioned favorite shortcake for dessert three baskets of berries will be needed, and at 25 cents a basket will total 75 cents. This brings the cost of the contents of this basket up to $6.04, with other temptations still in sight.

Now for the filling of another woman's basket who cannot afford luxuries and who must keep her dinner cost a bit inside of $5.

First there is a twenty-five cent basket of clams for chowder use. They will make, with the additional ingredients, a chowder for two dinners for a family of four. One and a half pounds of red snapper at 20 cents a pound will cost 30 cents and is to be used for ramekin entrees.

A five pound bluefish to bake will cost $1.25, but the left over fish will make excellent scalloped fish in ramekins for next day. A pint of shrimp at 35 cents, two cucumbers at 5 cents each and a head of lettuce at 10 will make the salad. One quart of best new potatoes will cost 15 cents and be sufficient for two dinners. Two bunches of radishes at 5 cents and two bunches of scallions at 10 cents will do for the relishes. An eggplant at 15 cents and a pound of tomatoes, also at 15 cents, make the baked vegetable course, and peaches will make, when stewed with sugar, filling for tarts.

In actual outlay this brings the cost of the contents of the basket up to $3.20. With the addition of three pounds of butter ($1.05), a dozen eggs at 28 cents and a cream cheese at 10 cents the outlay reaches $4.66.

A Game of Twenty Questions

By F. A. MITCHEL

Traveling in a parlor car, I swung my chair around from the window through which I was looking, and my gaze fell upon a young woman whose face was partly turned toward me.

She looked up and bowed to me.

I returned the salute, so far as I was able, without betraying the fact that I had no more knowledge of her than of my grandmother, who had died before I was born. Rising from my seat, I walked toward her and said cordially:

"This is an agreeable surprise."

There was an amused look on her face as she made some commonplace remark. I judged that she did not believe I recognized her, but there was just enough uncertaintly in her expression to tempt me to continue my pretense. A gentleman sitting in the next chair to her kindly offered to exchange seats with me, an offer I accepted, and sitting down beside my new found friend, I began to pour forth such words as would not give me away while I was racking my brain to place her.

It soon became apparent to me that she was aware of what I was trying to do, but she did not bring the matter to a head. Evidently she enjoyed my perplexity and was willing that I should have plenty of opportunity to remember her. In the course of our chat she said:

"When I saw you last you were single. Have you married since?"

"I am a bachelor. And you?"

"I am engaged."

A look of regret must have crossed my face, for she greeted the look with an amused smile. Glancing at the third finger of her left hand, where engagement rings are worn, I saw that it was bare. I looked up at her inquiringly.

"You would like to know why I do not wear a token of betrothal?" she said.

"I would."

"I will tell you before we part."

"Why not now?"

"Because it does not suit my pleasure to do so," she replied, with the same tantalizing smile.

It was so evident to me that she knew that I had no remembrance of her that I concluded to confess with a view to satisfying my curiosity.

"Come," I said, "you know very well that I am unable to recall who you are. Let us have an end of this fencing. Tell me when and where I have met you before."

She leaned back and chuckled.

"Have you ever played the game of twenty questions?" she asked.

"Many a time."

"Very well, I'll reply to twenty inquiries you may make as to where we were when we last saw each other."

I expended half a dozen questions in fixing the place of this last meeting in a summer house on the grounds of my father's country place. Then we began a new game as to the time of this meeting, and I learned that in eight questions. It was ten years agone. In another game for learning the lady's name I asked all the questions permitted without success.

I was no nearer what I wanted to know than before and was getting impatient, my condition being evidently simply delightful to my tormentor. I asked her what we were doing in the summer house, and she replied that she would give me twenty questions to find out. I got at this very easily.

"What was I doing?" was the first question.

"Holding my hand."

"What was I saying?"

"Telling me that you loved me and would always love me; that you would never forget me."

At this her mirth was excessive.

Memory now came in to do the rest. It carried me back to that summer house when I was a youth of seventeen. My companion there was then fifteen.

"I have at least been more true than you," I said. "I am still fancy free. You are engaged."

"Of course I am engaged. And now I will tell you why I don't wear an engagement ring."

I smiled a sickly smile. In the first place, I had then not possessed funds for a ring; in the second, I had forgotten my love before I could get the funds. A shadow must have crossed my face, for her mirth changed to sympathy.

"Don't worry about it," she said. "If all the things we do that we shouldn't do and all the things we don't do that we should do in youth came up to mock us when we are older we would be very much ashamed."

"Some of those things may be undone," I replied, "or at least may be repaired."

She understood me, for she cast down her eyes.

"I'm very much mortified about that engagement ring," I continued. "I had used up my allowance and was in debt for the next quarter. Better late than never. Wear this till I can get something appropriate."

I took a snake ring from my finger and made a motion to put it on hers. She drew away her hand, but I saw by her expression that the act was not prompted by her heart.

"When we last met, you say, I held your hand. Let us resume where we left off."

I did not take her hand—the place was too public—but, making sure no one was looking, I slipped the ring on her finger.

It was in time replaced by a solitaire.

Night Gown With Drooping Shoulders

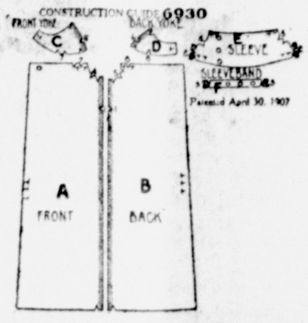
Dainty nightgown in nainsook having the front, back and short puff sleeves gathered to a round yoke with drooping shoulders.

As soon as a style gains sufficient prestige to carry over from one season to another, its adaptiveness is extended to the utmost limits. This is noted in the drooping shoulder, first introduced upon separate waists. The idea has run the gamut of garments until in its newest development it is seen in lingerie. The nightgown pictured today is a fascinating model in nainsook made to slip on over the head. The front, back and short puff sleeves are gathered to a round yoke with drooping shoulders. Lace finishes the neck and sleeves. For average size 4½ yards of 40-inch nainsook and 2½ yards of lace are required to make the gown.



As there are only six pieces of the pattern to be handled in cutting the gown, this process of the development is not difficult. The front and back should be cut first. Both sections are laid on a lengthwise fold of the material. To the right of the back there will be sufficient room for front and back yokes and the sleeve band. What material is left is laid on the table in open width for the sleeve to be cut from it.

To make the gown, close the under arm seam, then the sleeve seam as the first step. Next, gather the upper edge of the front back and sleeve between double "TT" perforations. Close shoulder seam of yoke as notched and sew to front and back, notches, center fronts and center backs even, bring small "o" perforation in sleeve to shoulder seam of yoke. Turn hem at lower edge of nightgown on small "o" perforations.

Gather lower edge of sleeve between double "TT" perforations. Close seam of sleeveband as notched and sew to lower edge of sleeve, seams even.

If desired, slash yoke near lower edge to pass ribbon through as illustrated, or finish with beading.

No doubt the woman who knows how to do hand embroidery will yield to the temptation to add a bit of this work to the gown, applying it to the yoke and front.
